New Ministers of the Eucharist

Congratulations to Brendan Hoban, who was commissioned as a Eucharistic Minister last weekend. This Sunday at the 10.30 Betty Martin, John O'Donovan and Niall Fegan will all be commissioned. We wish them many years of service to the Lord in this most important ministry.

Poem for the Feast of Corpus Christi

The day is long, the headaches many; I look for peace, but can't find any. Amid relentless rush and noise, life seems devoid of all its joys.

I long for comfort, someone kind, whose love might ease my troubled mind; But in this world of constant hurry, each person has his own deep worry.

There is a place where I can go, someone to hear my tale of woe; One who always has the time to share the load, to ease the mind!

I open the door and go inside, where peace and quiet still abide; Treading softly down the aisle I greet Him with a tired smile.

"How good it feels to be with You! Please help me, tell me what to do!" At first this is my fervent plea, but silence soon descends on me.

It stills my heart, the turmoil ends – no words are needed between two friends. At peace with Him and He with me, I know I'm where I ought to be

With Him I'm sure to find the way, to cope with living day by day. And when I leave, our visit through, He'll say "I'm always here for you".

I know that next week I'll return, to talk and listen, think and learn; To find life's meaning and true reward, before the Eucharistic Lord.
